

Pastors Carleton and Angela Booker are the founders of Married Couples Coaching Inc. Faith-centered marriage coaching ministry dedicated to helping couples heal, rebuild, and thrive after betrayal.

Married for 49 years, they do not speak from theory. They speak from experience. Their own marriage faced the pain of infidelity, and through faith, commitment, and hard work, they restored what was broken. Today, they help other couples do the same.

With over 30 years of coaching experience, Pastor Carleton brings spiritual leadership, practical wisdom, and direct truth that challenge couples to take ownership and rebuild trust. Angela brings compassion, clarity, and strength, guiding women through the emotional healing process while helping couples restore safety and connection.

As an African American husband and wife team, they serve a unique and underserved space in the marriage and infidelity recovery field. Their approach combines biblical principles, structured recovery frameworks, and step-by-step strategies that help couples move from crisis to restoration.

They have coached countless couples through:

- Infidelity recovery
- Rebuilding trust
- Communication breakdown
- Emotional reconnection
- Marriage crisis intervention

Their message is clear. An affair does not have to end your marriage. With truth, accountability, faith, and daily action, restoration is possible.

Pastors Carleton and Angela Booker speak at churches, conferences, marriage events, and leadership gatherings across the country. Their mission is to restore families, strengthen covenant marriages, and show couples that healing is possible when both are willing to do the work.

They do not offer theory. They offer testimony, structure, and results.
